(Fatherland) - On the occasion of International Women's Day (March 8, 2024), Ho Chi Minh City General Publishing House introduces readers to books for women and preferential programs.

"Just a Heartbeat Away from You" is a novel by author Isabelle Müller by translator Truong Thuy An and editor Truong Hong Quang.

Where is the fiction? What is reality in the novel? According to Writer Isabelle - the author just wants to share her own feelings about the Universe (Sky). The book is primarily intended to help people believe in the immense, super-existential power of the Sky (and themselves = humans and the interconnected Universe) expressed through each of us (we are a kind of channel for cosmic energy), to help them give up their fear of trials and/or mainly their fear of what will happen after death. It is about the power within us, our thoughts and words, mainly about the energy contained in thoughts and words.

It shows that energy is everywhere, in everyone and in everything, there is life beyond death because energy cannot die. The energy embodied by our lives is constantly circulating and transforming itself (with our imprints, with our experiences, with our will to understand better and with our open souls) = meaning that because energy is constantly evolving, our "true nature" continues to exist, possibly in a different form and eventually in other dimensions of time.

The author emphasizes the importance of each "imprint": each of our cells has a memory (before we were born = memories of others or/and our own if we choose our own rebirth, and after we die = when we leave our human shell, our "essence" takes on our energetic imprint). Energy imprints are a kind of prenatal memory that forms the basis of eternal life.

With the experiences you create in life, you strengthen your identity, then you break it down with other experiences and strengthen it again. In this way, you continuously create a new structure within yourself. Thinking and acting this way makes it all possible and gives us an idea of what eternity feels like. It also easily explains why some people can remember things they have never experienced themselves or why geniuses are inspired...

"Teacher's Diary - Tet Semester" by author - teacher Ho Yen Thuc is a book released in 2024 after the books Teacher's Diary - Spring Semester (2019), Teacher's Diary - Summer Semester (2021), Teacher Diary - Fall Semester (2022). This time, the Tet semester continues to describe the school life of a teacher who has passed the stage of getting acquainted with the subject and students, entering the stable stage of wholeheartedly building the workplace into a worthy place. living. In this close teacher-student relationship, they overcome their own limits, are equal in thinking, and develop together. When learning and working together towards a common goal, teachers and learners can see themselves, thereby learning to accept and love themselves, and then learn to respect and love others.

Through the book, young teacher Yen Thuc wants to convey her thoughts to readers: "University is an interesting place, worth experiencing in life. These four years of youth are like staying in a strange place in a corner." It's a strange city, it's worth looking forward to but it doesn't promise only joy, some people will like it, some won't. No matter what, learn about the daily activities, the people you'll meet, the conversations you'll have. Participate, university will definitely change a person."

With artist Nguyen Quan - art critic theorist: "This is an interesting, sharp and humorous collection of essays about educational psychology and the current educational "crisis". The writing of the teacher is excellent. Tu is also very clever, laughing lightly, one sentence expressing two or three spaces, situations and expressions at the same time. The mixture of everyday language, words of social networks with diary narrative both asks himself and eager for dialogue. Hopefully this type of writing connecting real reality and virtual reality will continue to flourish."
