“Try to consciously open your hearts”

Isabelle Müller captures the atmosphere of the book fair in an exclusive BB interview

Karlsruhe. With three fans in the three foreign languages Vietnamese, French and Russian, the author Isabelle Müller (we reported) was able to the reading from her first work “Phoenix Daughter” as part of the book fair. In exclusive BB interview reveals the former translator from near Pforzheim, how she describes the flair the book fair has.

BB: Mrs. Müller, in Karlsruhe, at one of the most prestigious book fairs in the country,

You have just read from your book “Phoenix Daughter.” How did you personally the reading and Karlsruhe audience felt?

Isabelle Müller: It was a very interesting reading, professional However, it was somewhat different from previous readings. The broad audience was so highly concentrated and captivated, that afterwards, unlike usual, we do not have any discussion With great pleasure I noticed that many fans had travelled especially to experience me live and to meet me personally to get to know. I felt how important to them the contact was it's just a look, a handshake or a few kind words.

BB: How do you usually prepare for a reading and what do such public appearances?

Isabelle Müller: Since I have my book I need little preparation. The only important thing for me is – especially when the hall fills – the atmosphere and to explore the vibrations. As soon as I know which audience tan the passages. I fit I adapt my readings to the age of those present and try to To consciously open hearts. It is to experience something wonderful, how my words affect the emotions awoken people.

BB: When and where can this Karlsruhe audience again your writing skills in Enjoy in the form of a reading?

Isabelle Müller: This can be done at any time on my website www.isabellemueller.de current read more.
