

The suffering of abused persons never expires

• About help with sexual Discussed abuse
Experts in the PZ forum.
• Author describes her Torments and how they tormentor has forgiven.

MARTINA SCHAEFER | PFORZHEIM

She has forgiven her tormentor, has written a book about the sexual abuse and will be on the podium in the PZ Forum on Monday evening in front of around 110 interested listeners. Isabelle Müller, author of the book "Phoenix Daughters" from Unterreichenbach, describes in a Passage of the autobiography, as you father at the age of eight for the first time. And then for nine years again and again.

Help for the victims

Müller and four other experts discuss this evening about abuse for emotional, from a legal and preventive View moderated by PZ editor Miriam Fuchs.

becomes clear: When they talk about it, then there is help for the victims, for example in the form of counselling centres like Lilith, the justice system and help for the perpetrators at the Karlsruhe Victim Protection Treatment Initiative

The message in the PZ Forum is clear: The experts Adolf Gallwitz, Angela Blonski, Christoph Reichert, Isabelle Müller, Klaus Michael Böhm and moderator Fuchs (from left) want children to be heard.

PHOTO: KETTERL

(Bios-BW). This is well suited to reducing the recidivism rate of offenders to reduce the risk, says its chairman Klaus Michael Böhm. His association uses men to preventive therapy – making it one of the few support services for perpetrators nationwide. "Therapy is not Duty," explains Chief Public Prosecutor

Christoph Reichert. In contrast to Swiss law, which takes victim protection into account in such a way that perpetrators are convicted and would be treated to prevent relapse. The statute of limitations After 20 years, which begins when the victim reaches adulthood, is understandable in his view. At some point, the court could award the alleged perpetrator

The crime can no longer be proven no longer clarify what when and where it happened. A verdict is then no longer possible. Perhaps, however, the civil law Persecution, for example in the form of compensation makes more sense. The law does not provide the victim with a right to Therapy. "It's probably a matter of costs."

In one third
In all cases, the mothers reported out of concern for her children with Lilith, says director Angela Blonski. In In suspected cases, it is necessary to react professionally. In Pforzheim Lilith would have a guide with kindergartens and schools. It is important to take the suspicion seriously, but not to dramatize. In general, there is a lack of good therapists for both both the perpetrators and the victims, The criminologist and professor sor at the Police Academy in Villingen-Schwenningen, Adol Gallwitz, firm.

The musician Lu Thomé leads with the song "Kinder" by Bettina Wegner for discussion about. A 74-year-old listener reports, that they are still suffering from the consequences from abuse. No one has want to see their suffering as a child.
"Nobody wanted to help me."
Question from Police Chief Burkhard Metzger, at which point forgiveness was possible, says author Isabelle Müller:
"When I realized
was that my father the poor Pig and not me."